KAISER COUP D'ETAT REVEALED

SINN FEIN ANSWER IS REJECTED

Wholesale Arrests of Wealthy Bavarian Conspirators Against German Republic Follows Discovery of Monarchial Plan—National Revolutionary Society

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—A revolutionary organization, with national ramifications, involving military interests, monarchists and anti-Semites, who were pledged to "remove" objectionable Republicans and work against the Republican government, has been discovered by the police, it was revealed here today.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—The communist newspaper Rote Fahne was suspended today for the balance of the week because it urged German bolshevik sympathizers to break up the divine services planned for Germany's war dead.

The persons behind the organization are said by the police to have been responsible for the assassination of Mathias Erzberger, leader of the Centrum party.

Many arrests have been made, especially in Bavaria, which now is said by the Berlin government officials to be a hotbed of royalist agitation. Some of the prisoners were former soldiers and participants in the von Kapp revolution in March, 1920. Others were formerly naval officers.

"The Erzberger assassination put us on the trail of the organization and we already know that radical members of the nationalist party are involved," a police official told the International News Service.

"Already we have arrested many responsible members. We are now running down clues to discover the identity of wealthy men who are suspected of having financed the organization."

LEAGUE WILL WORK FOR DISARMAMENT

By NEWTON C. PARKE
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—Proposal that the league of nations should cooperate with the far-east and disarmament conference was made in the league assembly meeting today by Dr. Lange, of the Norwegian delegation.

The league of nations should not abandon its disarmament plans on account of the Washington conference, said Dr. Lange. "The league should try to coordinate its dealings, particularly in regard to land disarmament while the conference at Washington discusses naval disarmament."

Norway was not among the nations invited by President Harding to the Washington conference.

The president of the assembly has appointed three lawyers—all members of the assembly—to determine whether the league is competent to consider Bolivia's demand for revision of the Chilean-Bolivian treaty of 1904.

The Bolivian delegates were in a conciliatory mood and it was expected that they would withdraw their demand for revision of the Chilean treaty.

23RD HOME RUN

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Bob Huesel, slugging Yankee outfielder, today hit a home run in the third inning of the St. Louis-New York game with two men on bases. It was his 23rd homer of the season. Yesterday he hit two circuit clouts against Chicago.

WOMAN MISSIONARY FROM GLENDALE IS HONORED

Division Named After Evelyn Utter Pearson by Ladies of Central Christian Church

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Central Christian Church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. A. Cole, 132 South Kenwood street, at which time a new division under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edgar L. Smith, was formed. It is to be called the "Evelyn Utter Pearson" division, named after a missionary from Glendale now stationed at Bolengi station, Africa. Mrs. Pearson is a former member of the Christian Church. Mrs. Joseph Guidinger was appointed secretary and treasurer. A committee to take care of the sick was appointed, as well as a program committee to look out for the program during the year. There are six different divisions in the society, four of which have already been formed. It is the desire of the president, Mrs. Floyd Mercer, that the other divisions be formed as soon as possible. The "Evelyn Utter Pearson" division will meet twice a year.

After the business meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. C. A. Cole.

Y. L. I. GIRLS MEET

A very interesting meeting of the Y. L. I. was held last night at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Smith, 731 South Glendale avenue. Two new members were initiated, Miss Mary Margeret Chapman and Miss Ward. Chances were distributed among the girls which are to be sold on a beautiful cedar chest. This chest will be filled with many beautiful and useful things that a bride would want and will be raffled off around Christmas time. The chances are being sold for three for twenty-five cents or ten cents straight. When the chest is filled it will be valued at about $500 and most of the articles are being donated to help fill it. These chances will be sold up until Christmas time.

It was decided at the meeting that the girls would take care of the candy and handkerchief booth at the bazaar which is to be held October 6, 7 and 8.

ANOTHER SOVIET RUMOR

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Fierce fighting has taken place on the White Sea coast between Russian naval and land forces, two hundred having been killed according to an unconfirmed Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily News today. The dispatch did not give any details.

MRS. P. A. POLLOCK RIVALS ROLAND IN C. OF C. DRIVE

A merry competition is on in the drive for new members to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. P. A. Pollock, 110 South Pacific avenue, and S. L. Roland, 113 West Broadway, general manager for the Southern California Metropolitan Loan Association, are the principals.

They are holding the center of the stage on account of the good work they are doing in the drive.

Mr. Roland has already secured six new applications for membership, while Mrs. Pollock is just one behind him with five, and while Mr. Roland is trying in the hardest kind of way to keep in the lead, Mrs. Pollock is equally confident that she will have secured the lead before another week has elapsed.

There are a number of workers in the drive who have secured two or three members, and even these folks are laying elaborate member-getting plans, which they feel will land them up close to first place before the end of the month and the end of the drive has been reached. The $25 prize is looming up bigger every day.

A meeting of all of the committees will be held at White Inn tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock. At that time the number of members secured up to that time will be reported and plans for the future week's work will be laid.

GLENDALE WOMEN TO SEE VALLEY FAIR UNDER WAY

Glendale was well represented at the general meeting of committee chairmen of the Women's Department of the San Fernando Valley Fair, which was held on the grounds yesterday afternoon with about one hundred ladies in attendance, from the eleven cities that will be represented.

In commenting on the gathering Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, culinary chairman for Glendale and head of the Tuesday Afternoon Club concession committee, declared that every visitor was tremendously impressed by the bigness of the fair, which will compare very favorably with many state exhibits, she said, and was struck with the fine accommodations for all departments which have been provided. The horse entries were coming in while the ladies were there and they saw some wonderful specimens of equine beauty.

The tent reserved for the women's department contains a large bandstand and space has been allotted there for reception quarters for all the chambers of commerce that will be represented. Its walls are a mass of flags making a wonderfully beautiful interior.

Pyramids of shelves have been arranged for the attractive display of culinary exhibits, plants and flowers will be beautifully disposed within a latticed space.

Mrs. Ella Richardson reports that provisions for the art department are very acceptable in spite of the fact that exhibits will be housed in a tent. Inside the tent a framework covered with beaver board has been built to provide wall space upon which pictures can be hung.

In the center of the tent a platform has been constructed upon which glass show cases are being built to hold exhibits of hand-painted china and bric-a-brac and make them perfectly secure from damage or theft.

In the absence of attendants, paid custodians will be in charge of the enclosure to insure its safety.

AMERICANS BLIND TO THEIR BLESSINGS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Uncle Joe Cannon, 85-year-old youngster of the House, today laughed at pessimists who are worried over business recovery.

"Americans today, in the rush for the almighty dollar, forget the blessings they enjoy," said the veteran of a hundred political battles.

"Why, back in Danville long years ago, before the days of gas and electric lights, and other marvelous inventions that have brought comfort to the people, the folks of the town opened their eyes in amazement at the sight of an oil lamp in a store window.

"Just look back at those days. Well do I remember when the people thronged down on the main street to see the first kerosene lamp burning in a shop window. It was in the days of the tallow dip candle.

"Now, see what we enjoy today, in life's comforts and conveniences. These are the happy days, but so few realize it.

"The Gloomy Gus of business must wake up to the big future ahead. Most prosperous, most resourceful of all nations, the business men of the United States are blind to many advantages for which they should be thankful."

UNIONS TO FIGHT

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—A fight against complete expulsion of organized labor from four of the largest meat packing concerns here was to be launched at a meeting called by officials of the international butchers workers union of Chicago for this afternoon. The plants became 100 per cent "open shops" today.

CLOUDS OVER ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 15.—This city was completely darkened by heavy clouds for several minutes, shortly after 9 o'clock today.

TAX LEGISLATION IS CAUSING SENATE DISSENSION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Growing dissension among Republican senators regarding proposed tax legislation, coupled with the failure of Secretary Mellon and Budget Director Dawes to convince the Senate finance committee that a saving of $350,000,000 in government expenditures is possible during the fiscal year, served today to further muddle the revenue revision situation, which threatens to plunge the Senate into a long, bitter fight when it reconvenes six days hense.

After announcing first that they intended to rewrite the House measure Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Senate finance committee, and others of its Republican members closely associated with the administration have virtually fallen back on it. They sought to allay opposition by rejecting several of Secretary Mellon's latest tax suggestions, one of which was to abolish all surtaxes above 25 per cent.

IMPROVEMENT BOND ISSUE FOR ELK AND OAK IS ASKED

About 35 property owners of Elk and Oak streets were present at a meeting, held last night in the city hall, between these property holders and members of the city council to discuss the problem of replacing the worn out water mains on these streets.

Mesrrs. Cardel, Linn, Power, Nelson, Paclow and Hare were spokesmen for the property owners and several plans to finance the relaying of these water mains were offered.

The first plan to be discussed was that of levying an assessment against the entire city, but was later modified by a plan to assess the property owners of the district immediately affected by the laying of the pipes. Along with this plan it was suggested that the city furnish the labor necessary to the laying of the pipe and the property owners supply the pipe, the assessments to cover the cost of the necessary material.

Another method of securing the funds for the work was suggested. This method was to vote a bond issue, the bonds to be in denominations of $50 and $100 to afford the people of Glendale an opportunity to purchase them.

Another method of levying a special tax on the property, immediately concerned in the desired improvement, was offered. All of these methods were discussed by the members of the city council and the property owners present at the meeting last night but no definite decision was reached.

The city council has agreed, however, to take up the matter at the earliest opportunity and until that time will investigate the matter further.

BIBLE CABINET MEETS

Following a prayer meeting service at Central Christian Church last night, conducted by Rev. Clifford A. Cole, on the very appropriate subject of "The House of God," the Bible school cabinet meeting for the month was held. The financial outlook was found to be very promising and the lack of room for the fast-growing school the greatest problem. Tue nominating committee presented a list of officers for the ensuing school year, beginning October 1, which report was approved and the election will be held in the Bible school session next Sunday morning. The advisability of securing one of the young men students of the School of Christianity, now in session in the new building on Vermont avenue, Los Angeles, as leader of young people's work was discussed, but the concensus of opinion was that action should be deferred until the new building is completed.

MAIL CLERKS KILL TRAIN ROBBERS IN HOLD-UP

FOR WORTH, Tex., Sept. 15—Two train robbers were instantly killed near here today when they attempted to secure a registered mail pouch from the mail car on train number 11 of the Texas & Pacific railroad.

Government agents had been tipped off that a holdup was to be staged and operatives waited with shot guns and rifles.

When the robbers put up a fight they were riddled with bullets.

GLENDALE MAN NEW PRESIDENT OF THE RETAIL GROCERS

J. Herbert Smith, proprietor of the Glendale Grocerteria, was elected president of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association yesterday at Santa Barbara, where its twenty-second convention closed. Mr. and Mrs. Smith drove up last Sunday to attend this meeting.

Before adjournment the association dispatched a telegram to Attorney General Daugherty at Washington protesting against any revision of the packers' consent decree, which is now under discussion for modification. Among resolutions psased was one declaring against all forms of license or occupation taxes.

RACE RIOT STAGED IN A TENNESSEE RESORT TOWN

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Race rioting, which broke out at Mont Lake late yesterday afternoon, continued until all negroes had been driven from the village, news reaching here today said. The disorder followed the shooting of four white girls by Jewel Clipper, a negro girl about 10 years of age, after an argument over using a spring.

Edna Barnett, aged 12, daughter of a miner, was wounded by a charge of buckshot and it is feared she may die.

Three younger sisters of the girl were also wounded, less seriously.

CREW OF BURNING SCHOONER RESCUED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—The steamer Humboldt reported by wireless to the marine department of the Chamber of Commerce today that she had picked up the nine men comprising the crew of the power schooner Lotus, which was destroyed by fire off Point Huenems, 80 miles northwest of San Pedro. The Lotus was en route from this port to San Diego.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Conclusions of the British cabinet committee regarding unemployment throughout the land and widespread unrest resulting therefrom will be laid before Premier Lloyd George in Scotland today. The extent of the jobless problem will be shown by official figures, which listed 1,500,000 men and women without any remunerative employment, while over 400,000 more are working on short time. In addition 290,000 "out of work," who have been receiving the unemployment dole fro mthe government, will soon come to an end of the 22 weeks' allowance provided to keep the wolf from the door. The latter will be totally destitute. Meanwhile rioting, due to unemployment, is becoming a daily occurrence in many of the big cities.

British Premier Sends Back to Irish Cabinet De Valera's Reply for Revision and Modification—Refused to Accept Note as Delivered at Inverness

DUBLIN, Sept. 15.—Joseph McGrath and Harry Boland returned today with Eamonn de Valera's latest peace note, which Premier Lloyd George had refused to accept until it was revised and modified. The Sinn Fein cabinet went into session at 11 o'clock at the Mansion House to discuss the situation.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

DCBLIN, Sept. 15.—The accusation that the British government seeks "to rend the ancient nation of Ireland and partition its territory" is made by Eamonn de Valera in his latest note to Premier Lloyd George. The contents were made known this afternoon despite the fact that the premier refused to accept it after he had read it.

De Valera said he hoped Irish peace delegates will have reached Inverness by September 20, the date proposed by the premier for the opening of the parley.

"In this final note it is our duty to reaffirm the position of our nation," said the communication.

"Our nation has formally declared its independence and now recognizes itself as a sovereign state. Only as representatives of that state and as its chosen guardians have we any authority or powers to act on behalf of the people."

The note goes into an interpretation of de Valera's favorite phrase, "a peace conference on the basis of the consent of the governed," and concludes with the words: "In reality it is your government that seeks to rend our ancient nation and to partition its territory."

De Valera said he wished the "principle of government with the consent of the governed to be accepted by the British in its every day interpretation."

"We have no hesitation in declaring our willingness to enter a conference," said the note. "We desire to ascertain how the community of nations known as the British empire can best reconcile itself with Irish national aspirations."

The Irish newspapers intimate that a most serious hitch has occurred in the peace proceedings, but they refuse to comment editorially.

When the Republican cabinet went into session it was said that the text of de Valera's letter might be made public this afternoon. The Sinn Fein chieftain refused to comment upon the new developments. They intimated that the situation was so delicate they feared that they might complicate it still further by talking. There is much significance in the fact that de Valera will not be a member of the Irish delegation if the Inverness peace conference is held as planned. Arthur Griffith, the chairman, and Michael Collins, commander-in-chief of the Irish republican army, who are nominated by Dail Eireann as two of the members, are known as two of the most radical leaders among the Sinn Feiners.

ULSTER UNIONISTS DENIED ENTRANCE

By EARLE C. REEVES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Ulster Unionists have requested representation at the proposed Irish peace conference at Invemess but were refused by Premier Lloyd George, it was learned this afternoon. The refusal was based upon the premier's contention tht the conference with the Sinn Feiners is but a preliminary meeting and that later a general parley will be held when all Irish factions will be represented.

A dispatch from Dublin to the Evening News states that Premier Lloyd George actually has received the reply of the Dail Eireann. An important official statement on the Irish situation was expected to be issued here tonight.

The Dublin correspondent of the Standard telegraphed a report that Eamonn de Valera had asked Premier Lloyd George whether Ulster would make concessions if the Sinn Fein peace envoys proclaimed allegiance to King George. Allegiance to the king was one of the conditions for the peace conference. Ulster has already announced her refusal to come under Sinn Fein authority and the Sinn Fein is anxious to know if the premier is making any efforts to have the Ulsterites give ground in this connection.

MACHINE GUNS ARE USED IN BELFAST

BELFAST, Sept. 15.—Two women were shot during a violent outbreak of rioting here this afternoon.

The fighting centered in Vere street. Revolvers were fired and stones and brickbats thrown.

The police were powerless to disperse the mobs and soldiers with machine guns were summoned.

The machine guns soon cowed the rioters.

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM IN VERDUGO

Last night Mrs. Ella Meeker, Mrs. Ella Richardson, Miss Ida Waite and Miss Ina Whitaker, constituting a committee appointed by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, visited Hollywood Bowl to witness a performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream," in whcih Esther Ralston, a former Glendalian, is appearing as Titania.

They were very much impressed with the beauty of the production, Miss Waite, who had seen a performance by the Ben Greete players in Chicago, declaring it compared very favorably. The setting, she says, was exceedingly beautiful and, in her opinion, it could be given with equally fine effect in Verdugo Woodlands.

The production is being considered as an attraction to follow "In a Persian Garden," which is to be produced Saturday night.

BABE RUTH'S 55TH

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Babe Ruth, the mightiest swatter of baseball, set a new world's home run record here this afternoon when he drove out his 55th home run of the season in the first game of a double header with the St. Louis Browns.

The home run came in the fifth inning with one man on base. Bayne was pitching for the Browns.

RECOVERS FROM ACCIDENT

J. J. Johnson of Charter Oak, and Eddie Gilmaker of Sunland, who were picked up by the side of their overturned auto on the Verdugo Canyon road, just south of Montrose Tuesday evening and treated at the Glendale Sanitarium, have recovered and returned home.

PARCEL POST TO RUSSIA RESUMED

WASHINTON, Sept. 15—Parcel post service is now open to Russia, as well as the regular mail service, the postoffice department announced today. This service was discontinued during and immediately after the war because of unsettled conditions in Russia. Unregistered parcels can be sent to Russia in Europe, and Russia in Asia, except the Ukraine and Turkestan, by way of England.

Fruit stains on linen should be smeared with glycerine and left for an hour. They will then readily wash out.

SAN FERNANDO HAS RICH HISTORICAL TRADITIONS

A few hundred years ago the Padres and Castilian soldiery exploring northward came to a beutiful land, that is now known as Southern California, and established Missions, schools and gathering centers for the vanguard of civilization and development. One of these efforts that was very successful was in the San Fernando Valley. Later intrepid American trappers and scouts pushed their way across the desert, and threaded a path amid hostile Indian tribes and when arriving in California were astounded by its beauty, its rich soil and abundant forage. Kit Carson was one of these men and later he guided Fremont, the Pathfinder who secured for us the ownership of California.

Kit Carson first came upon the San Fernando Valley through Cahuenga pass. The 49rs arrived, and later farmers came and there are men still resident in Los Angeles who can tell about the San Fernando Valley as they saw it. Rich grass, thigh high, and fat cattle on the slopes and hills and the center of the valley a rank thicket so that one could easily get a shot at a quail within ten feel of a beaten trail. They tell of the grizzlies infesting Pacoima and Tujunga canyons as late as the '70s.

It has been only a few years ago that the San Fernando Valley was a large grain ranch with abundant cactus thickets and very little water. The late General Otis, Harry Chandler and a group of Los Angeles men conceived the possibility of development that now exists, and this development would alone make those men notable, though it was accomplished with a primary profit motive as all great development must be.

Supporting the movement to bring into Los Angeles the aqueduct water from the Owens River, which many people hooted at and decried, these same builders protected the men who purchased land by securing for them a supply of a portion of the extra surplus aqueduct water.

Today the San Fernando Valley is a great developed district in which some forty thousand people reside in the ten towns and cities now thoroughly established.

Roughly ten miles wide and twenty miles long, this is one of the richest vallevs in the world. Yearly it is doubling in population, yearly grain crops are being replaced by orchards and groves, and yearly ordinary farming gives way in more acreage to intensive cultivation.

A half hour from the center of Los Angeles and a part of that city it affords homes and many factories are moving northward for the facilities it afords, away from congested city conditions.

It is this great Valley as well as Hollywood development that is drawing Los Angeles business out Seventh and Western avenue, looking west and north on one side and looking north and east from another side, all towards San Fernando Valley.

Today it is the great poultry supply point, today the alfalfa acreage is over 7000 acres, cutting in December and in February, as well as summer and what other district or location can do that? Today the San Fernando Valley is the center for a great part of the Los Angeles milk supply and its citrus and fresh fruit orchards are enormous and varied. It grows better chickens than Petaluma, better alfalfa than Modesto, better prunes than the Santa Clara, better peaches than San Jose, the best milk in the state, the finest hogs in the southwest, and corn that beats the hundred bushel clubs of the middlewest, and corn that goes 24 tons to the acre of silage, as they do everything better in this valley as soon as they learn just the right way to meet conditions here.

TRADE AT HOME

As a good example of why you should "trade at home" just read this:

A gentleman came into the Park Avenue Pharmacy the other day and in talking to E. E. Brown, the proprietor, happened to mention that he had just returned from Los Angeles, and that he had made a special trip to the city for a loose leaf binder. Mr. Brown asked him how much he had to pay for one, and found that they sold for sixty cents in town. He took the man over to the counter and showed him a binder, even better than the one he had purchased in town, and when asked the price said "only forty cents." This sort of surprised the man, for here he had paid twenty-five cents car fare and twenty cents more than was necessary for the binder. Another instance came to light where an order for special ice cream in the city at $3.85 per gallon could be purchased or ordered here, in Glendale, for $3.00, and delivered to your home, while that purchased in the city at a higher cost, had to be called for.

OPTOMETRISTS HAVE ENLISTED TO SAVE EYE STRAIN

Optometrists of Los Angeles County have enlisted in the Save-a-Life League, a national organization with headquarters in New York. In a letter to Dr. Harry March Warren, president of the league, the local optometists offered their aid in the campaign for the prevention of suicides.

The object of the league is to save those in despair. Hospitals, medical treatment, legal aid and homes are eventually provided. The workers in the organization receive no compensation for their services and most of the aid from hospitals, doctors, and lawyers is donated to the movement.

"Over-wrought nerves are frequently the cause of suicidal inclination," was the statement of Dr. E. H. Morrissey, an official of the Los Angeles County Association of Optometrists, "and this condition is due in many instances to defective vision which places an unnatural tax upon the nerve force.

"It is the belief of the optometrical profession in Los Angeles county, that we could be of great assistance to humanity by correcting the eye strain of those who come to the attention of the Save-a-Life League. The league, in its operation, can help the sufferer through present troubles, and the members of our association are glad of the opportunity to serve by correcting the cause of overwrought nerves."

"GARDEN" PARTIES

Appreciating the social opportunities of the production of "In a Persian Garden," to be given Saturday evening in a sylvan, outdoor setting in what was formerly the old Verdugo Park, with silver moonlight to lend its glamor to the scene, Glendale hostesses are arranging for dinner parties to precede the evening's entertainment.

One of the hostesses is Mrs. Spencer Robinson, who is entertaining ten guests, another is Miss Annie McIntyre, who will be hostess to five, and there are rumors of other similar functions.

NEW ATTORNEY HERE

G. H. King, attorney at law, has opened offices in the T. A. Wright building, at 106-A East Broadway. The Kings are living at 727 South Maryland avenue, and Mr. King resigned the position of City Attorney at Fort Angeles, Washington, to make his home in Glendale.

ROLAND HAS SPEED

In connection with the drive for members by the Chamber of Commerce a number of various and amusing ways of securing new members have been reported, but for a method that is strictly to the point and which, as one booster of this drive has termed it, is a "go-getter," the procedure of S. L. Roland, who is general manager for the Southern California-Metropolitan Loan Association, is a novelty.

Mr. Roland was "working" on a prospect and got right down to business:

"Are you in favor of the Southern Pacific trains stopping in Glendale?" he asked.

"Sure thing," said the prospect.

"And would you like to see an adequate sewerage system installed here?"

"Most assuredly."

"And would you like to see one or more big hotels constructed here?"

"By all means; we certainly need them."

"And do you think Glendale should have an independent postoffice?"

"I have always claimed that she should."

"And would you like to see the Montrose car line extended to Sunland and Tujunga, so that our merchants would receive the patronage of several thousand more people?"

"That would be a grand scheme."

"And would you like to see more and better parks in Glendale?"

"I surely am in favor of more parks."

"All right," said Mr. Roland in a few selected and sweetly chosen words, "just put your 'John Henry' on the dotted line. This is an application for membership of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. The chamber is trying like Sam Hill to get the very things we have been talking about, and it is the only organization in Glendale that is able to get them. By becoming a member of the chamber you voice your desire for all these things and you also show that you are willing to assist in footing the bill."

The prospective member attached his signature.

Although the water in Niagara Falls is really clear, it appears green as it falls. This is said to be due to carbonic acid gas.

PERSIAN PROPHET IS IMPRESSED WITH LOCAL SCENERY

If any one doubts the claim that the other name for the Fountain of Youth is Southern California, he should ask Persian Patriarch-prophet Mirza Assa Ullah, of the Persian Gardens, Glendale-Verdugo Woodlands.

Only instead of the fabled fountain sought by DeLeon and his eager adventurers, the Prophet of The Green Verdugo Hills uses the Pacific Ocean for the bathing and the ozone of the sea and the high hills for his Elixir of Life. Last week he announced to his son, Dr. Ameen U. Fareed, the Glendale physician, that he "would go to Long Beach" for a day. He is ninety seven years young and youth will have his way and to the sea shore the children of Old Iran motored. Into a bathing suit and out into the briny deep went the near-century old Oriental—not foot wetting, beach strutting or sandsunning for Mirza Assad Ullah. It was the kiss of the waves—the embrace of the Mother Ocean he sought—and found. The effect was tonic and instead of returning to The Persian Garden for rest and recuperation, after a strenuous day he insisted on staying at the beach for a solid week—and bathing every day.

Mirza Assad Ullah, in honor of his loved and illustrious countryman, Omar Khayyam, is to add a public appearance for Art's sake to his other evidences of eternal youth, and will take the part of the Aged Prophet in the dramatization of "In a Persian Garden" to be given by the William G. Stewart opera players for the Music Section of the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon Club, this Saturday night at the Natural Theatre, at Verdugo Woodlands park—in northeast Glendale. An open air theatre that has the most striking background of giant sycamore and live oaks found in any of the open air theatres. Dr. Ameen U. Fareed, a world-wide authority on Omar Khayyam, and lecturer on The Rubaiyat, has also contributed his services in the prologue and as co-director with Mr. Stewart and Miss Ina Whitaker in the presentation of the masterpiece of Persian literature with proper costumes, settings and oriental customs, so that a finished artistic as well as a musically dramatic entertainment is assured.

The sun is only due south in the heavens at noon on four days in the year.

METHODIST PASTOR IS GIVEN SURPRISE

Rev. Clyde M. Crist, pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, was very pleasantly surprised at the close of the prayer meeting, which was held in the church last night. Yesterday was the birthday anniversary of Rev. Crist and in order that he might know that the ladies of the church had not overlooked this annual event Mrs. C. D. Lusby and Mrs. Charles Starkey, prominent workers in the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, presented him with a large birthday cake and a beautiful bouquet of salmon colored dalias. The cake, which was carried in by Mrs. Lusby, was resting upon a beautiful wicker tray and was decorated with numerous beautiful small pink roses. The bouquet of dalias was carried in by Mrs. Starkey, who, in a few selected words presented all of the gifts to Rev. Crist. For two years Rev. Crist has been pastor of the Methodist Church of this place and is well liked by the entire membership.

During the prayer meeting last night Carl Seitter, director of religious education of the church, presented the new religious program for the coming vear, the compilation of which he has just completed. At the meeting last night there were something like 150 people present.

LIBRARY NOTES

Mrs. Danford, city librarian, is calling attention to the fact that the library now has on its shelves Harold Bell Wright's new book, "Helen of the Old House," and Jean Stratton Porter's "Her Father's Daughter."

She says that the additional funds granted by the city will not be available for the purchase of books until the first of November.

Valuable additions to the reference library include Roth's Course in Memory Drill, and Purinton's Course in the Development of Mental Efficiency.

BACK FROM HONEYMOON

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gordon, who have been spending their honeymoon at St. Catherine's hotel, Catalina, returned to Glendale last evening, much to the surprise of their many friends. They have been gone about two weeks. Mrs. Gordon was Miss Eileen Sullivan before her marriage.

C. G. WOODS HOME IS SCNENE OF WEDDING

A very pretty home wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock when Mrs. Christian P. Smith of New York became the bride of William Woods, 512 West Doran street. The ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. C. G. Woods on Grand View avenue, the Rev. Stephenson of Burbank officating. Only members of the immediate families attended.

The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white roses and carnations combined with baby's breath and fern. The bride wore a dark blue tailored suit with blue velvet hat and veil to match.

After the ceremony a delicious dinner was served, covers being laid for twelve guests. At each end of the table were candelabra holding white candles. In the center was a large basket of bride's roses and baby's breath with fern. The bride's cake was beautifully decorated with lilies of the valley and bride's roses. The couple left shortly after the ceremony for a honeymoon trip.

Mrs. Woods is formerly of New York, having just returned from that city Tuesday, after spending the summer with friends there. She also visited her sister in Canada. Mr. Woods is employed by the Sperry Flour Company in Los Angeles and has been a resident of Glendale for a number of years.

SANITARIUM PATIENTS

Mrs. Emily F. White and Mary Flickenger of Los Angeles are undergoing a short course of treatment at the sanitarium.

N. E. Luce of Glendale, Arizona, is seriously ill at the sanitarium hospital. An effort is being made to ward off an operation.

Recent tonsil operations at the sanitarium hospital were as follows: F. D. Nichols, 113 South Belmont street, Glendale, the operation being held Sunday morning; Mrs. P. S. Kellogg, 614 North Louise street, operation held Sunday morning; Miss Grace Judd, 130 South Orange street, the operation taking place Monday morning. All of these patients are doing nicely.

Charles B. Wallace of Long Beach, enrolled as a patient in the sanitarium this week, as did also Miss M. E. Goudy of 3096 San Mironar street, Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. C. Bardsley, 334 West Burchett street, Glendale, was taken to the sanitarium this week. Her condition is quite serious.

PRAIRIE SCHOONER DUE NEXT YEAR FROM EAST

(By International News Service)

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 15.—Prosperous, but with an innate aversion for the automobile which his New England stubbornness will not permit him to forget, J. C. Berrang, living near West Chester, Conn., sixty years old, and his white-haired wife are migrating to the West in search of further fortunes, as the pioneers of sixty years ago did. They are traveling in an oxen-drawn wagon. They don't anticipate reaching the "promised land" until late in 1922.

Already Berrang and his wife have been on the road nearly a year. They left their Connecticut farm December 2, 1920, and their destination is the fruit belt of Oregon.

The procession is quaint. The "wagon train" is headed by two huge oxen, drawing a canvas-covered wagon with bulging bows. This is followed by a more modest outfit—a cart drawn by an ox. They make ten miles a day. They have no speed record to break. Mrs. Berrang, white haired, who shares this adventuresome spirit of her husband, has walked beside the unique train the greater part of the distance from Connecticut.

Berrang is unable to account for his great desire for adventure in the late days of his life. He has money, enough to live comfortably. His home is Connecticut. He knew no other country. He prospered. Then he had his first misfortune. His barn and home burned down. But that didn't financially wreck him. Instead it created in him a desire to go West and see for himself the wonderful opportunities which he believes he'll find there.

Once he reaches the goal he says he wants to "settle down" and begin all over again. He's going to buy a small farm, raise fruit, and just putter around the farm. He confesses that to him a trip is his "gold strike of 49." That rush for gold nearly three-quarters of a century ago has always had glamour for him. Now he's off to search for another kind of gold.

In Ohio Berrang will switch off to the Lincoln highway. In Winter he will be headed for the South, and in Spring he'll turn North, and then the final lap—to Oregon and to his apple orchard.

Old London mansions, as they pass from private use, are frequently bought by clubs.

HOSS SENSE

(By International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 15.—Use of common horse sense oftimes is valuable to horses as well as humans.

A horse belonging to a farmer four miles from here became ill with colic, kicked the barn door away and appeared at a horse hospital in the city for treatment. The veterinarian after treating the horse remembered that about a year ago he had treated it for the same ailment. The owner said he had not taken the horse there during the intervening period.

CHILDREN'S VESSEL REACHES RUSSIA; 800 ABOARD

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15—Ninety per cent of the 800 Russian boys and girls of the Petrograd Children's Colony, who were taken practically around the world in an effort to reach home by the American Red Cross, have been safely returned to their parents.

The remaining few whose relatives could not be located are being cared for by the Society of Towns of Petrograd in a good boarding school, according to Dr. Herbert M. Coulter, who had charge of the "ark" which took the children from Vladivostok to Riga and who arrived here recently.

Dr. Coulter brought an interesting account of the reunion of some of the youngsters with their parents. In several cases parents did not recognize their own children.

The trip from Vladivostok to Riga and Petrograd was accomplished in three months, with stops made at San Francisco, New York and Brest, where supplies were taken on.

"When in Brest," said Dr. Coulter, "we took on enough supplies for six months, because we did not know where we were going to land next. From Brest we headed for the Baltic Sea via the Kiel Canal. The Baltic Free States were very friendly to us, but did not want so many Russians to land on their shores.

Upon our arrival in Petrograd we secured the use of the Halba Sanitarium, which was built by the Czar shortly before the war for treatment of tubercular patients but was never used. With this as a headquarters we were able to distribute the children in an orderly manner and in groups of one hundred at a time, until all were disposed of," said Dr. Coulter.

"How some of those grateful parents welcomed their 'long lost' children was certainly more than touching," said the doctor. "In many cases where I delivered the children in Reval to their parents in person they did not even recognize them. This is easily explained, for the half-starved children of two years ago were quite a contrast to the well fed and two years older children returned to them. In many cases mothers and fathers had given their children up as lost or dead, as they did not know they had fallen into the hands of the Red Cross.

Mother Swoons at Reunion

"One case I shall never forget was that of a mother who refused to take her seventeen-year-old son back until she had been fully convinced that he was her real flesh and blood.

"Another touching case was that of a mother who fainted when she saw her daughter. It was two hours before the mother was revived to sign the papers for the return of her daughter," Dr. Coulter said.

Because Americans were not sure of getting out of Russia once they put foot on Russian soil, the children were taken to the middle of the bridge at Petrograd and there turned over to the Society of Union Towns, who saw to it that they were properly delivered to their homes.

The greater percentage of the children who were aboard the "ark" came from the better families of the professional class, and there were also one or two titled members in the party according to the doctor.

"We have several letters from those who were placed in care of the Society of Towns and they say the Soviet Government is giving them the best food it can under the circumstances. There is every reason to believe they are being well taken care of," said Dr. Coulter.

Dr. Coulter also made a study of nutritional conditions in Vienna, Budapest, Prague and Warsaw, and said the populations are badly in need of assistance, and will be for at least two years.

TAMPICO OIL MEN WOULE LIKE PAY FOR IDLE TIME

(By International News Service)

MEGICO CITY, Sept. 15.—When the oil companies decide to resume operations on a large scale in the Tampico districts workmen will not rush back to their old positions, according to labor leaders here.

The workers will demand payment for all of the time they have lost since the shutdown, due to the low price of oil.

It is believed, however, that this plan to collect for days of idleness cannot be carried out, as many of the old field workers are in great need and will rush to get employment at the first opportunity.

But the claim for back pay may be used by agitators to cause friction after operations are resumed.

Extraordinary precautions against the spreading of disease are being taken at Tampico because of the great number of idle and indigent persons there.

LIVER SHOWS OCCUPATION

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 15.—How a doctor was able to determine what had been the occupation of a man whose dead body he examined was disclosed at an inquest on a man found dead on a London sidewalk.

"Without being told what was his occupation," said the doctor, "I came to the conclusion that he had been a shoemaker, because the liver was badly indented and squeezed by pressure of the stomach, and put it in my report."

MALE HABITS MAKE MASCULINE FACES SAYS DOCTOR

Written by MARGERY REX for the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Will excessive smoking cause women to take on masculine characteristics, even grow beards on their faces.

From Paris comes the startling news that French doctors are able to prove by statistics that alcohol and cigarettes cause these abnormal growings on feminine faces.

If this be true then it should be the most effective argument ever offered against the use by women of cigarettes. Fear of losing her delicate facial beauty will cause her to give up what a woman would never relinquish in response to moral teaching.

If only other disputed customs of humanity showed results in this undeniable fashion, it would be easy to halt many other excesses.

There is the question of marriage and divorce, which was discussed recently at the All Cults' Medical Association by Colonel Dinshah Ghadiali, metaphysician and psychologist. He said:

Should Not Degrade Themselves

"The whole trouble is in women trying to be the equals of men—they never can be. They always have been and always will be men's superiors. Woman is supreme, especially in the development of the race, for, no matter what a man may achieve, he can never become a mother.

"That is why I am against women degrading themselves with drink and smoking. It will be a great calamity if women take up the vices that men are now setting aside. But nothing can be done by class legislation or laws made against one sex or the other. Woman has the same right as man to do a thing. There should be no legislation against any particular sex, race, class, color, or creed in this country.

"Morality cannot be forced by law. We must educate people to it. Girls must be taught by their mothers their true place in the world."

Colonel Ghadiali, or Colonel Dinshah, as he is often called, has had a varied and picturesque career. He is a Parsee, born at Bombay, India, and from early childhood has shown intense interest in research work of a scientific nature. For thirty years he has studied light, heat, electricity and magnetism, and has found in certain light waves valuable curative properties. Colonel Dinshah is also a psychologist of acute perceptions.

Reasons for Opposing Smoking

"I am neither faddish nor fanatic," Colonel Dinshah said, "but I am a sworn enemy of smoking.

"The poisons that are in nicotine are not always well understood. They are pyridine, sulphuric acid, carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide and prussic acid.

"The results of smoking are dry throat, imperfect circulation of the blood with loss of equilibrium, hardening of the arteries and weak eyes, bad teeth and poor digestion.

"Smoking among women may easily result in a serious loss of equilibrium and the perfect balance of feminine characteristics which makes her a woman. Then she may take on male characteristics, such as a beard. A woman should not court any masculine habits or characteristics or she will surely lose her own feminine personality. This is produced by a deterioration in glandular activity. Both men and women have the characteristics of the opposite sex, but one group is always more developed than the other which lies dormant.

"Women should stay women and not try to take on the characteristics of men.

"In order that the perfect child shall result from marriage a harmonious union is necessary. Eugenics claims to accomplish this, but that science is wrong. It relates only to the physical side of life. I refer too, to the psychological aspects as well. The perfect mating must be based on the most powerful force in the world, that emotion called love. From the marriage relations of life all happiness and unhappiness result.

Disillusion Brings Discord

"A human being of one sex is drawn to one of the opposite sex because of the difference in polarity. But if these two in mating fall short of the proper ideal as demanded by nature, the psychical side of nature revolts. The man thinks the girl should be the ideal woman he has read about in stories, and the girl wants him to be her ideal hero. Thus, disillusion brings discord to the former harmonies of matrimony.

"The second reason for unhappiness is that often a wife cannot rise along with her husband as he advances in the world. Then tastes vary as to the way to enjoy life, and this difference may not be apparent till a long while after marriage.

"In man and woman there are two factors, self and sex. The man who is devoted to a women submerges his self, humbles himself and asks her to marry him. Normally the two factors are equally distributed in the normality of men and women. But woman makes man lose his equillibrium for a while and tumbles him over from his high ego.

"What we need to settle many marital problems is a court without lawyers—a tribunal of common sense, presided over by psychologists."

DON'T KNOCK—KICK!

Knockers knock themselves over in the end. They are pests and we shun them as pests.

Be a kicker with a purpose. Kick for something. Kick to get somewhere. And kick yourself regularly.

All the great men of history were chronic kickers. First, they kicked themselves into shape for great tasks. Then they kicked for something and to some purpose until they landed.

A knocker is never satisfied with anybody except himself. A kicker is never satisfied with himself and gets somewhere.

"COME ON—LET'S GO"

As has been pointed out most of the blue-nosed pessimism today is psychological. It is a sick state of mind wished on the public by the long-continued depression.

As Will Hays, our cheerful postmaster general, puts it, there ought to be less "Thou shalt not" talk and more "Come on—let's go!"

If every citizen in the country would take that attitude right off the reel, and stick to it, the country would be cured of its imaginary illness over night.

SOUSED MACKEREL!

An ancient mariner reports red-nosed sharks prowling about the three-mile limit, and wicked newspapermen hint that the boys must be getting careless with the rum out there. Nonsense! Nothing short of shipwreck would give the sharks a chance, in which case we would bet on the sea serpent bobbing up with a red nose!

Real Estate Review

Building permits totaling $34,660 were issued during the past 24 hours up to and including noon today. This figure brings the amount of the permits issued for the month up to $232,010 and the yearly figure so far up to $3,132,329, not quite $,000 less than the total for all of 1920, which was $3,137,264.

The largest permit issued for tne day was to Roy E. Berry for $5775. Mr. Berry will build an 8-room double house at 204 North Cedar street.

Who are the strongest and most consistent boosters in town? There is but one answer to this question, and this answer is applicable to Glendale, or any other town, no matter the size or number of residents.

The real estate agent is the strongest booster because he realizes that his business is to sell property in the town in which he is doing business and that to sell property the demand for that property must be created by boosting.

Inasmuch as the real estate man is the strongest booster that any town has he is entitled to a square deal from his clients, both the buyer of property and the seller. Too many people with property to sell place their house and lot in the hands of an agent and set a certain price on it and in most instances the agent has to take his commission for the sale out of this asking price. At the same time, in many instances the owner of the property also places a "For Sale" sign in front of the place for sale. That is all right, but too many of tne owners when a prospective buyer approaches them and inquires the price of the property for sale, quote him the same price that he has listed with the agent, minus two and a half per cent or half of the agent's commission. In some instances the prospective buyer does not purchase from the owner at the time, but calls on a real estate man who may have the same property listed as for sale. The agent quotes his price to the prospective buyer, quotes the price that the owner has given him, which is higher than that quoted to the inquirer by the owner. The result is that the man seeking to purchase the house is given the impression that the agent is "boosting" the selling price for his own gain and the agent loses a sale beside leaving a wrong impression with the prospect.

It is not the intention of the owner of the property, in most cases, to place the agent in a bad light when such an instance occurs. It is merely thoughtlessness on the part of the owner. He does not realize that the agent is merely acting on his instructions and is entitled to cooperation on the part of the owner.

The agent does not expect the owner to miss an opportunity to sell his property but he does expect and is right in expecting the owner to ask the prospective buyer the same price that he has listed the property under with the agent and by doing so maintains the agent's reputation for honesty.

The real estate business is one of the cleanest conducted of the present day. It has to be conducted clean or the agent loses his state license to sell property. A state board governs the issuance of licenses to all real estate salesmen and firms. If, when a man applies for a realtor's license his record is clean he is issued the license. If there is the slightest question regarding his honesty the license is refused.

A real estate salesman is always under the control of the State Realty Board and if a complaint of wrong dealing is made to the board against the agent and is proven his license is revoked immediately, and the agent is forced out of business in this state.

This State Board was instituted mainly at the request of the real estate operators of California who were actuated by the desire to protect, in every possible manner, the prospective buyer and seller of property from the unscrupulous agent and to maintain the high standards set by the members of the craft. The agents secured this board for the protection of the buyer and seller and in return are entitled to any cooperation and protection that it is possible for the owners and prospective owners to give.

Mrs. Mary Ayres, 215 East Palmer ave., will build a duplex bungalow at the corner of Glendale and East Palmer avenues. The contract is in the hands of J. C. May, of the firm of May & Hellman.

F. H. Dryer of Boulder, Colo., and also of Battle Creek, Mich., has invested in Glendale property and will locate here. Mr. Dryer, while in Battle Creek was the manufacturer of the famous Kellogg cereals and has a large acquaintance among the big investors of the east. He has been in Southern California for some time and has spent several weeks in Glendale. The brief period spent in this city was sufficient to turn Mr. Dryer into a booster and the announcement that he has purchased property in the city and intends to remain is the result. In addition to making his future home in Glendale, Mr. Dryer is making strenuous efforts to interest his eastern friends in the city and has written fifty letters boosting Glendale and inviting his friends to invest here. His letters have been successful inasmuch as one business friend of his, who has considerable wealth has notified Mr. Dryer that, acting on his advice, he is coming to Glendale where he will make considerable investment.

Gathered About Town

O. L. KILBORN

Roy Stanford took out a permit more than a month ago for the erection of a 5-room bungalow and garage at 132 West Lomita avenue. The garage was built at once but a press of other work delayed commecing of other work delayed commencing Excavating for basement and foundation is now being done and work on the house will be pushed rapidly.

* * *

Ben Sherwood, the hustling young contractor who has built a dozen or more houses in Glendale already this year, took on two more this week, one for Albert Marple at 716 South Louise, and the other for Frank Welsh on Mariposa, south of Palmer avenue.

* * *

It is really too bad that the paving of Sycamore Canyon boulevard, from Lexington Drive to Acacia avenue, cannot be started at once and pushed to completion, for it will be a north and south outlet for a number of east and west streets, such as Stanley avenue, extending east from Adams, between Wilson and California avenues: Orange Grove avenue, which now ends at Adams, but the proposed extension of which is already being built along quite extensively nearly to Verdugo road; Elk, Chestnut and Maple, which now end at Sycamore Canyon boulevard, and are well built up that far. Acacia avenue would undoubtedly be extended to the new boulevard, also, as well as Garfield avenue, which now ends at Glendale aveue but which is soon to be opened as far as Adams. The three-fold purpose of the boulevard named, it will be remembered, was to provide a safe outlet for the storm waters of Sycamore Canyon, which, during flood times used to threaten the entire east side; a right-of-way for a P. E. loop from the present terminus just south of Broadway, east of Adams, south to a point 150 feet below Windsor road, then westerly and southwesterly to join the main line at Cypress avenue; a paved boulevard from Lexington Drive and Verdugo road, southwesterly and south to join an easterly prolongation of Acacia avenue. Although this three-fold project was started nearly ten years ago the only thing accomplished thus far is the securing of the right-of-way and the laying out of the same.

* * *

The recent cutting down of a giant eucalyptus tree on Lomita avenue about 100 feet east of Brand, which, including the working up of the same into wood and clearing away the limbs and trash required the steady work of two men for nine days and about half that time for a third, has revealed a possible danger that may threaten many residents of this "street of the big trees." Before commencing the work of felling the tree the man in charge attached two strong steel cables leading southeast and southwest to insure the falling of the tree to the south. The roots were cut off all around and it was thought the tap-root would hold the tree from falling until the steel cables could be tightened and adjusted to throw the tree exactly where it was wanted. But before this could be done the tree suddenly fell and not where intended, breaking down a hundred feet of division fencing and some small trees in an adjoining lot. Examination of the uprooted stump showed the absence of anything resembling a tap root, when one at least 12 to 16 inches in diameter might reasonably be expected. Indeed there was no indication that there ever had been one. Now if this gigantic tree had no taproot is it not possible that others like it have none but are held in place by only the spreading network of other roots, the severing of which on one side might easily cause the tree to fall, with great damage to property and possibly to life. Would it not be well to investigate this subject before it is too late?

HENRY NICOLAUS

The remains of Henry Nicolaus of this city, who suddenly expired of heart failure last Friday while touring Yellowstone Park, have been brought to the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Co., and funeral services will be held there Thursday at 2 p. m., at which Rev. Clyde Monroe Crist, former pastor of the dead man, will officiate.

As a pioneer in the development of the San Fernando Valley, the passing of this venerable citizen, who has witnessed and contributed to the upbuilding of the most fertile valley in Southern California, is of more than ordinary interest.

Besides his immediate family, consisting of his widow and two sons, Fred C. and Roy Y. Nicolaus, he leaves a very large circle of friends by whom he will be sincerely mourned.

Interment will take place in Forest Lawn.

NEW REALTY FIRM

E. L. Schuyler and William McMillan, well-known real estate salesmen, who have been associated with J. F. Stanford in this city for some time, have formed a co-partnership with Peter Hanson with their new place of business at 124 West Broadway. These gentlemen promise to become one of the live realty firms of Glendale.

"TRAIL OF THE ARROW" AT GLENDALE HUDSON CO.

"The Trail of the Arrow" is the title of the thrilling and daredevil motion picture that will be exhibited free of charge to the people of Glendale by the Glendale Hudson Motor Company at the company's headquarters, 230 North Brand boulevard, the film to be shown tonight, tomorrow and Saturday night. Each evening, from 8 until 10 o'clock this film will be shown continuously for two solid hours, and a personal invitation is extended to every resident of Glendale to be on hand to see this film, that is filled with daring deeds and hair-raising achievements.

The truly wonderful part about the motor trip that is shown in this remarkable film is that the entire trip was accomplished by two brave girls, Nell Shipman and Marjorie Cole, both of Los Angeles. At a discussion in which these young ladies took part some time ago the question of the ability of a woman to drive an automobile down into the Devil's Punch Bowl and out again came up. One of the girls said she believed a woman could accomplish the trip successfully. Bob Battle, who is generally known to be a "woman hater" and who was also taking part in the discussion, vowed that it was impossible for any woman living to make the trip, and he said he was willing to bet $1000 that his contention was correct.

The two young ladies showed their sporting nature by accepting the challenge and depositing $1000 in gold to cover their end of the argument. The date for the attempt was announced and the start was made. The girls drove their car over the wastes of the desolate Mojave desert to the rim of the bowl. The descent into the bowl was filled with difficulties of all kinds. The trail was entirely unbroken and the girls were compelled to force their car, an Essex machine, over boulders, through washouts, across deep sandy stretches and, in fact, to put their machine to every test that could be imagined. The girls finally reached the center of the bowl and, while resting there, they realized that their work was not nearly half accomplished. The task of getting out of the immense hole or canyon was the real test. They entered upon this part of the trip with greater vim and determination than they had thus far shown, with the result that hours later the rim of the bowl again was reached. The return trip over the desert was safely accomplished and when the plucky girls again reached Los Angeles they were acclaimed the champion women automobile drivers of the world.

A mere word description of this thrillnig jaunt is extremely weak—nothing can tell of the experiences through which these two young ladies went as can the actual photographs of their accomplishments.

L. S. Davis and W. W. Reilly, members of the Glendale Hudson Motor Company, say there is a treat in store for everyone who comes to see this remarkable film. They are making arrangements for the accommodation of over 700 visitors nightly.

A CORRECTION

Mrs. A. M. Beamon calls attention to mis-statements in the report of her northern trip, published a few days ago in the Glendale Press. The clams which she and her family dug and ate at El Pismo Beach, were 4¾ inches across and not 4½ inches, as stated, also her party did not pick flowers in the Redwood Forest because it is forbidden.

STOCKMARKET

(Sugarman's Indicator Service, New York City)

AM. AGR. CHEM.—Farmers bought fertilizer heavily in the spring of 1920, in the belief—later proved erroneous—that high prices would prevail for their products in the fall. With huge orders staring them in the face early in 1920 it was natural that American Agricultural Chemical should load up with raw material. The big break in commodity prices, which carried along with it the fertilizers, compelled the company to pass dividends. Directors of the company made same mistake as majority of business men in believing that good times would keep on for a number of years. Report for the year ended June 30, last, now at hand, shows deficit after Federal taxes, charges and inventory adjustment of $1,158,442, which compares with surplus of $5,281,562, equivalent after preferred dividends to $11.18 a share earned on common stock in preceding year. Profit and loss surplus on June 30, last, amounted to $2,669,950 as contrasted with $18,105,306 on June 30, 1920.

Farmers have cut buying fertilizer on account of high operating expense of the 1921 crop, but next spring conditions should return to normal when we can expect American Agricultural Chemical to display its old-time earning power. Common stock is now selling at 27 as compared with 1920 high peak of 95—surely this drastic decline has probably more than discounted prevailing conditions.

COLUMBIA GRAPHO.—Take the case of Columbia Graphophone. If the personal affairs of the average man showed up proportionately in such condition as displayed by balance sheet of Columbia Graphophone as of end of 1920,—such particular wage earner would be pestered night and day by bill collectors. Accounts payable totalled $2,864,000; notes payable $13,430,000, against which there was cash $5,553,000; notes and accounts receivable $5,178,000; investments $2,146,000; dividends $2,789,000; notes discounted $385,000 and inventories $23,236,000.

Falling purchasing power of the public resulted in decreased sales, but it is said banking assistance will be given in order that Columbia Graphophone may tide over present depression.

Investors should not forget that here is a great company producing a necessary product (recreation is a necessity) and at prevailing low price (3¼) has discounted many unfavorable features.

* * *

N. Y. CENTRAL—Reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission for this well-known company are now at hand. Needless to say it has been awaited eagerly by thousands of interested stockholders.

July gross was reduced to $26,295 as compared with $32,703 for same month a year ago. In spite of this falling off, however, company displayed net operating income of $4,744,511 compared with deficit of $2,296,000 for July 1920. It is believed that pleasing increase in net is harbinger of better times to come. On moderate reaction we would suggest buying orders in New York Central.

* * *

SOUTHERN PACIFIC — In the South-Land company has many friends. Recent passing of preferred dividends altogether was regretable yet there are definite hopes that this deferment is not permanent. July gross was $10,387,467 compared with $12,584,800 same month a year ago. Net operating income as reported at $1,163,000 for month of July, last, as compared with $1,098,862 in corresponding period of 1920.

It may be a long pull but at prevailing quotations of 44 we think Southern Railway, referred, is a bargain.

* * *

NEW HAVEN—Perhaps we are prejudiced against this road ever since we advised holders to liquidate close to the $33 per share level. It is now selling close to $14 per share.

Net operating income for month of July, last, was $485,255 and although this is inadequate to meet multitudinous fixed charges it compares favorably with net operating deficit of $4,039,000 piled up in corresponding month of 1920.

Leave New Haven stock severely alone, is our urgent advice. There are other stocks selling around $15 per share, which in our opinion have greater possibilities than New Haven.

* * *

CHESAPEAKE & OHIO—Passing of dividends came as distinct shock to shareholders. If showing made during July last continues, however, we may reasonably expect regular $4 per share per annum dividend to be resumed. According to report to Interstate Commerce Commission this road earned last July net operating income of $1,534,566 compared with net operating deficit of $393,450 same month of 1920.

Net operating income for the seven months is about 25% ahead of corresponding period of 1920. We would buy Chesapeake & Ohio on slight reactions.

DELAWARE & HUDSON R. R.—Company reports June net operating income of $1,062,854 compared with net operating deficit of $196,477 same month a year ago. Net operating income for first six months this year is placed at $2,679,040 as compared with net operating deficit first half of 1920, which amounted to $927,017.

NORFOLK & WESTERN—Company reports net operating income of $1,247,706 for month of June. Net operating income since January 1 to June 30 is reported at $4,367,386, or about ten times net operating income of June, 1920, which amounted to $435,040.

N. Y., NEW HAVEN & HARTFORD R. R.—Company reports June net operating deficit of $83,396, which compares with a June, 1920, deficit of $427,033. The net operating deficit during first six months of 1921 is placed at $4,736,742, which is about the same as corresponding period of 1920.

Chesapeake & Ohio—Company reports net operating income for June of $1,944,753, which compares with $245,461 net operating income in June a year ago, and stands at $5,041,319.

Philadelphia & Reading—Company reports June net income of $829,216, which compares with a June, 1920, operating deficit of $298,335. The net operating income for first six months of 1921 is placed at $2,698,260, compared with net operating deficit of $424,598 the corresponding period a year ago.

Lehigh Valley R. R.—Company reports net operating income for month of June of $644,870, which compares with net operating deficit of June, 1920, of $1,328,431. The net operating deficit for first six months of 1921 is $825,613 and a year ago first six months displayed huge deficit of $6,441,143.

Wabash R. R.—Company reports net operating income of close to $4,000 for month of June, which compares with net operating deficit of $1,345,263 in June a year ago. The net operating income for first six months of 1921 is $890,177 as compared with large deficit of $5,208,477 for the same period in 1920.

Delaware & Hudson R. R.—Company reports June net operating income of $1,062,854, which compares with June, 1920, net operating deficit of $198,477. The net operating income from Jan. 1 to June 30 last is placed at $2,679,040 and compares with net operating deficit of $927,017 in first six months of 1920.

TRUCE PERMITS ANALYSIS OF WEST VA. HATE ORGY

By SIEGFRIED D. WEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1921, by the International News Service).

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The attempted "March to Mingo," which resulted in bloodshed during recent weeks and finally forced the government to send troops into the "battle zone," was not the first mass action on the part of the union miners in West Virginia. Twice before the latter have moved in force to spread the gospel of "the right to organize," which, they claimed, they could not propagate by peaceful means because of the coal operators' guard system.

The worst warfare raged in 1912 and 1913, which arose from the union miners' efforts to organize the Paint and Cabin Creek districts of Kanawha County. How comparatively mild was the recent fighting may be judged from the casualties in that bloody struggle eight years ago.

Nearly 700 men were killed, of whom about 500 were Baldwin-Felts detectives and 200 deputy sheriffs and armed citizens opposing unionism.

Since then the United Mine Workers of America have made great headway in organizing the West Virginia local fields, but the richest of all—that in Logan County—remains to this day a thoroughly "open shop." It is the bulwark of the coal operators, defended, as was seen recently, by an invincible army of anti-union men, private detectives, State troopers and armed citizens. A good many people have been puzzled by the support of supposedly "uninterested" citizens to the coal operators and by the readiness of hundreds of inhabitants who, on the face of things, have no part in the controversy between miners and operators, to take up arms and risk their lives in the battle against the union men.

The answer is simple: Those citizens are, for the most part, in lines of trade or profession which are directly or indirectly dependent upon the coal operators. In the forefront of this "auxiliary army" are traders whose business has flourished for years under the open-shop rule. They dread the union as a spectre that will deprive them of their prosperity. They dread, above all, strikes, which, they fear, would paralyze trade and industry in their sections.

Situation Pregnant With Trouble

Strikes, too, are the main bugaboo of the operators in their determined last stand against unionism. It is the old, old story: At present, with the workers unorganized, the operators are the dictators. With the union triumphant in that richest of the country's "black diamond" field, the employes would sooner or later be in a position to turn the tables and dictate to the employers.

That is why the war has been called in these dispatches an Armageddon between labor and capital. It may be proper to state at this juncture that the purpose of these articles is not to argue the right or wrong of either side, but merely to set down the fundamental facts and to give the background of the struggle, which is destined, before it is settled, to play an epoch-making part in the social economic history of the United States, for the present military occupation is merely an armed truce.

The Coal Operators' Association, in a "brief" of many thousand words submitted to the Senate Committee now investigating the Mingo troubles, set forth eight main points in support of its own case.

Briefly summarized, they are:

First—That to recognize the union in this coal field would put the coal industry in this section at the mercy of its competitive fields.

Second—that it has been repeatedly demonstrated that mine workers, when organized, frequently, for imaginary causes, go out on strike, thus interrupting the output of coal and thereby increasing the cost of production.

Third—The production of coal, if all miners are organized in one union, is put at the mercy of the officers of such union.

Fourth—Strikes cause the failure of the producer to fulfill outstanding contracts, resulting in direct loss.

Fifth—The United Mine Workers of America is not a corporation, a partnership or a legally responsible entity. any contract made with it, or with any sub-division thereof, could not be legally enforced, and no adequate damages for a breach thereof could be recovered.

Unionism Devitalizing

Sixth—The miner, wroking under an individual contract of his own making, has both the incentive to better his condition by efficient work and the sense of responsibility under his contract, while, once a member of the union, he is made to feel that he can do as he pleases, and the organization will stand behind him, all of which results in a lowering of the individual standard of honesty and efficiency.

Seevnth—Many mine workers are definitely opposed to the union and do not want to join it. Likewise, many mine owners are opposed to it, and it is vital that interference by either the union man or the non-union man with the rights of the other should not be tolerated.

Eighth—The policies and methods of the United Mine Workers of America, being based upon force and violence, are unlawful and make dealings with that organization impossible.

Obviously the most important of these points are numbers 3 and 8. It all resolves itself to this:

The coal operators will fight tooth and nail to prevent the balance of their power slipping from them into the hands of the union, and the union will fight with equal determination to complete its conquering circle by unionizing the district that holds the key to America's coal industry.

The operators' charge of "force and violence" is met by the miners' counter-charge that the owners make if utterly impossible to carry on peaceful union agitation, which they claim as an inalienable right, recognized by the courts and embodied by that powerful American labor body, the Federation of Labor. The miners aver that there isn't a chance of even a whispered word for the union reaching the "open shop" workers as long as the latter are surrounded by an army of armed guards.

"The Barrier" Impregnable

Upon those armed guards is centered the full flame of bitterness and hatred of the union men. They are "The Barrier" which they know they must level before they can even "talk union." Hence the recently oft-repeated plea that the Baldwin-Felts Detective Agency be deprived of its charter and that Don Chafin's army of deputy sheriffs—anyone who wishes to help can be sworn in as a deputy sheriff—backed up by the bitterly-anti-union State Constabulary, be demobilized.

Written in large crimson letters in the background of the warfare stands the ominous word, "Eviction!" It was that which led directly to the Battle of Matewan, of May 19, 1920, which in turn caused the indictment of two dozen men on murder charges setting the stage for the "Trigger Trials," the second of which is now under way in the little Mingo Court House at Williamson, W. Va.

Briefly, this is what happened:

Miners lost their jobs because they had joined the union and were agitating for the union. Now the coal operators furnish lodging to the miners in comfortable little block houses called "company houses." A condition exists there that dates back to the pioneer days and may be summed up under the ancient term of "master and servant" agreement.

The operators argue that when a miner is "through" working for them, then, from that moment on he has no longer the right to live in a "company house." They compare his status to that of a maid or a chauffeur or a butler; once these servants quit or are discharged they have to "get out."

In the majority of cases that has been understood by both sides, and miners, after being "through," have peacefully moved out. In other cases the courts were appealed to, and the result in the end was the same. The trouble began when Baldwin-Felts detectives undertook to evict tardy exminers by force.

To quote from the coal operators' "brief":

"Mine houses are as much incident to the business of mining coal as are tipples, or as are desks in an office. The courts have so held. Occupancy of the house by the miner is a mere incident to his employment, and his right to such occupancy ends when his employment ceases. Under this law the mine owner has the right to evict any miner wrongfully retaining the occupancy of the house after his employment has ceased, provided such eviction can be made without a breach of the peace."

Orgy of Hate

On the fatal day of the Matewan battle, Albert and Lee Felts with a party of fellow-detectives, evicted a number of union miners nearby. Excitement ran high. The whole population of the little mining town was incensed. All the long pent-up hatred against the detectives rushed to the fore. Ugly stories made the rounds of alleged brutality displayed by the evicting-detectives, especially against women and children. There was a dispute over their legal right to evict. After the evictions the detectives had to go to Matewan to catch a train. There they were met by Sid Hatfield, the young chief of police of the town. There were words, at first polite, "joshing," as is the custom there before a storm, then bitter, insulting. A crowd collected, and suddenly the blood orgy was on. It lasted a minute and a half, after which seven detectives and three townsmen, including C. C. Testerman, Matewan's mayor, lay dead.

It was the signal for "Armageddon." The trial last January, February and March, ending in the acquittal of Sid Hatfield and fifteen others, was but an episode, as was the killing of Hatfield and young Ed Chambers by "Star Spy" C. E. Lively at Welch, W. Va. But both events served powerfully to inflame the minds and steel the determination of both sides to prepare and arm for the final round.

Now United States soldiers are again patrolling the battlefields, and until the last of them is gone there will be peace. And the second "Trigger Trial" is on—this time the defendants are tried not by men from their own county, Mingo, but from a strange county, Pocahontas. The trial and its outcome will have a significant bearing on the future course of the mining war. It is being watched by 600,000 union miners throughout the country, and, indeed, by organized labor as a whole as it is watched by capital as a whole.

Everything indicates that both sides have "only begun to fight."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Can She Make Japs Grow Taller or Not

Mrs. Henning has produced the most perfect cattle in the world, which have won the highest milk and butter tests. The Emperior thinks that the kind of milk diet, water, soil and vegetation which produces perfect stock will increase the stature of his subjects.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES WANT INCREASE IN WAGES

By W. H. ATKINS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Readjustment of the Government upon a better business basis, along lines laid down by President Harding and Director of the Budget Dawes, will be supported to the limit by the army of workers on Uncle Sam's payroll.

This assurance came recently from Luther C. Steward, in a formal statement of policy, which has been laid before the annual convention of the National Federation of Federal Employes in New Orleans, which will close its sessions September 16.

But the Government workers, President Steward said, will lay before Government heads a broad program for more adequate pay and better consideration of the "human factor" in the moves now being made to inject economy and higher efficiency.

The Government will not be put upon a better plane of efficiency until the merit basis is thoroughly established and less "political pull' is permitted to sway officials in the matter of selections of employes for promotion, he said.

These are some of the conditions to which President Steward called attention, and matters with which the New Orleans convention is dealing to bring about improvement in governmental administration:

There are 50,000 men and women employed in the Government service at less than a living wage.

Laborers Best Paid

There are about twelve different rates of pay for the same class of work.

Scientists and other experts are paid less in many instances than the wages received by common labor.

Hundreds of jobs are vacant because low salaries will not attract qualified talent.

Political methods of appointing "favorites" must be abandoned and the merit system installed.

"Wasted motion," in the Government service costs the taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

President Harding has received, in a visit from officials of the Federation, promise of loyal support in every move he contemplates to remove existing abuses and improve conditions of employement for the workers.

"Work for the Government is opportunity for service—let's all pull together," was the President's warm message to them.

President Steward, discussing the time-worn methods of running the Government, said:

"We are beset with conditions which show a complete lack of consistency as to an employment policy, complete lack of standardization to personnel conditions and great waste of human effort, human material and Government funds."

The convention, it is said, is aiming to band all Government workers together in a plan to inspire a new point of view upon the part of Congress and the public, with regard to the Government workers.

They would change the view of Congress that the great body of workers on Uncle Sam's list are merely a "great aggregation of jobs."

Merit Base is Sought

The convention, Mr. Steward announces, is seeking ways and means to secure legislation for complete reclassification of the United States Civil Service on a strictly merit basis with modern employement standards.

Sex discriminations within the Government services would be torn down, if President Steward's policy is carried through.

Government workers who are leading the movement for better legislative treatment from Congress and who are figuring prominently in the New Orleans convention are:

Luther C. Steward, Kansas City; Gertrude W. McNally, Washington, D. C.; John Fitzgerald, Brooklyn; Charles L. Wiegand, Baltimore; Richard Nash, East St. Louis; William I. Sleep, Boston; S. T. Kissel, Philadelphia; M. J. Hines, Leavenworth, Kansas; Edwin T. Tobin, St. Louis; E. C. Dauphine, Dayton, Ohio; E. J. Newmeyer, Washington, D. C.

Ask Standard Salary Scale

President Steward's platform outlines the following as basic principles upon which Government workers must be brought solidly together.

"1. A uniform employment policy affecting working conditions and salaries, determined by a central administrative agency after consultation with department heads, this agency to have power of review and to constitute a board of appeal.

2. A standardized salary scale based on skill and training required for the work performed, with just relation to the cost of living as determined by official investigations.

"3. Appointment, allocation, promotion and removal in accordance with proved qualifications determined by the correlating agencies, i. e., the U. S. Civil Service Commission and the Budget Bureau in consultation with appointing officers.

"4. Equal pay for work of corresponding skill, with equal opportunity for promotion, irrespective of sex."

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

"BEACHES" IN STREETS

(By International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 15.—Shower baths, in the street, via pipe line, is Kansas City's latest innovation to war against the heat.

It is now possible to make a social feature of your nightly or weekly bath by frequenting the municipal street shower baths, recently opened here.

The bathing hour is 6:30 in the evening. At that hour a pipe is attached to a corner water plug. This connects with a shower bath apparatus, which, set in the street, throws water for a radius of fifteen or eighteen feet. The water is turned on for an hour.

Since the "baths" have been opened crowds have flocked to the "beach" nightly. The grown-ups and the children mingle and enjoy their frolic.

The bathers are not bothered with any bathing beach inspectors to censor their costumes. Persons can be seen promenading to the "beach" attired in bathing suits, overalls, wrappers, kimonos and trunks.

The fire and water board is planning to install street shower baths in other districts where there are no municipal bathhouses.

MIDGET BRASS SCREW

(By International News Service)

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Passing to friends here a small celluloid case, a travelling salesman cause them to wonder. The salesman then produced a reading glass which was seen the merest speck, which on inspection proved to be a brass screw.

The screw is used in the tinest of watches. It is the smallest screw made, its dimensions being: Total length, 28-thousandths of an inch; diameter thread, 12-thousandths of an inch, 380 threads per inch; diameter head, 26-thousandths of an inch; weight, 12-thousandths of a grain.

ARDENT LOVER IS JAILED

(By International News Service)

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 15.—Efforts of Justice Winfred H. Whiting to patch up a quarrel proved unsuccessful in District Court when John H. McGahey, 19 years old, was arraigned on a charge of accosting on complaint of his former sweetheart, Annie Smith, of Parish Place. Miss Smith is 17 years old. McGahey told the police they would have to lock him up to keep him away from Miss Smith, and they locked him up. The case was continued.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS KILLED

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Six soldiers of the American army of occupation in Germany were killed when a military lorry was struck by the Dortmund-Frankfort Express, said a dispatch from Coblenz today. Coblenz is headquarters of the American army of occupation.

Uncle Walt's Story

THE RISING GENERATION

"I WONDER what sort of men and women the children of today will make?" sighed the professor. "They all seem to have the idea that amusement is the one thing that is important. They spend their days and evenings on the streets, in theaters, or in automobiles. I don't see how they can grow up with any serious sense of the responsibilities of life."

"I suppose there ought to be a law," rejoined the low-browed man. "It is time to call a halt. Well may we ask, whither are we drifting? But, to tell the truth, I'm not losing any sleep over that proposition. I have the idea that the kids of this generation will stack up as high as any you ever knew. Among them there are several presidents of the United States, and innumerable congressmen and postmasters, and perhaps one or two Shakespeares.

"I've noticed that the old boys always view with alarm where the kids are concerned. It was that way when I was young. The boys of our neighborhood formed a gang, and we used to assemble every evening for diversion. There were no automobiles or movies then. Our pleasures were of the cheap but filling kind. In the winter, when there was snow, we took our handsleds and had great sport. Our parents found it impossible to get us to do any useful work when the sleighing was good, and said parents used to get pretty despondent over it.

"I have heard my father say a hundred times that the boys of that period were not worth the powder that would blow them off the landscape. 'All they think of is fun,' he used to say, so discouraged he could hardly stand it. 'When I was young,' he'd go on, 'children understood that amusement was merely incidental, not an end and aim in itself. When I was ten years old I used to saw all the wood used by the family, and carry buckets of water from a spring two miles away, and milk fourteen cows, and curry eight horses, and polish the stove, and hang out the week's washing, and when I had a few minutes to spare I sat down and read a good book, so that when I was twelve years old I knew the unabridged dictionary by heart. But the boys of the present day won't do anything useful or profitable unless you stand over them with a club.'

"Father used to talk that way all the time, until I got sick of hearing him. My grandfather was alive then, and he felt worse about it than dad did. He used to say he'd be jiggered if he could see anything ahead of such boys as he knew, but the jail or the poorhouse. All we cared for was a good time.

"It was the same way at school. If a boy was half an hour late in the morning, because he got interested in a game of marbles on his way to school, the teacher would say he never did see such a frivolous bunch as the boys of that generation were, and then he'd take down a small sapling from the wall and larrup the student until his troubled soul was soothed.

"All the old graybeards were agreed that the boys of the neighborhood were headed for the everlasting bowwows, and we were always being lectured and roasted and held up as horrible examples. Yet, the most of us did pretty well. I am the only one I can recall who didn't make a shining success of life. I am grand worthy custodian of my aunt's cows. I might have risen to a greater height, but I was crossed in love when I was young. A man doesn't recover from an experience like that. He loses his ambition to be president, and is satisfied to peddle milk.

"But Freddie Bilker became a successful book agent, and has his own motorcycle; Jim Gangling studied law and finally was appointed notary public by the governor; Charlie Ormiston also studied law, and got a job on the police force; Oliver Messway is the best southpaw pitcher in the cross-country league, yet the old fossils used to say he would come to a bad end; then there was—"

"Spare me the ghastly details," urged the professor.

SOME WOULD ANSWER NEVER

French Law Wants to Know at What Age a Man Is Competent to Choose a Wife?

At what age does a man possess sufficient ability to be able to choose a wife?

According to the present French laws, remarks the New York Tribune, he is not considered capable until he reaches thirty years, and should he marry before that time he must obtain the consent of his parents. In 1918 and again in 1919 the chamber lowered the age to twenty-five, but each time the bill was rejected by the senate. Soon another attempt to alter the law will be made by Abbe Lemire, deputy for the Nord.

The abbe says that men who would make an unwise marriage at twenty-five would be just as liable to do the same thing at thirty. He also thinks that more men and women who have supposedly reached the age of discretion make more unhappy marriages than younger people.

"I certainly think a man is sufficiently matured by the time he is twenty-five, or even twenty-one, to enter into marriage upon his own responsibility. It seems ridiculous for a man to have to ask his parents' consent until he is thirty."

The Marchioness Townsend gives as her opinion that "by the time he is twenty-five if a man has bad tendencies they will have developed, or if he has good tendencies they will also have developed. It would certainly, in my opinion, be a good thing to lower the age at which a Frenchman attains his majority."

ARTIST'S MISSION IN LIFE

By Interpretation, He Must Unfold Beauty to Those Persons Not So Gifted as Himself.

All work has some element of the creative, but the artist must realize that it is art that brings everything to him, and that the best he can bring to art is sympathy, intelligence and skill in presenting it. The material has always been there and it is for him to develop the means of imparting it to others. The singer sings a song—but before he can deliver its message with his voice, the composer has visualized through a musical setting an interpretation of the poet—the poet has translated a phase of life, or emotion, that has come to him from reading or experience. Our knowledge and the mental processes that govern our actions are the result of recorded and unrecorded memories—and so on through an endless chain of evolution.

The artist's mission is to interpret the depth and breadth of the mysterious joys or sorrows of existence, real and imaginary, through music, poetry, sculpture, painting, the stage, or whatever his profession. In his interpretation he unfolds these beauties—to other men and women who may not be gifted with the mental or physical abilities to re-create them for themselves, but who can understand and enjoy them through the medium of the artist—and as his skill in that medium develops, his giving out of understanding increases.

Piccadilly a "Ruff."

Piccadilly, known the world over as a famous thoroughfare of London, received its name from a tavern several centuries ago. The tavern in its turn took the name from a tennis court that was near by, and much frequented by members of the king's household.

The tennis court acquired the name because of the number of both men and women who frequented it wearing a "picadilly," or ruff.

The name, then, was originally the name of a shirred bit of silk, or other stiff material that was gathered along the edge of the cloak, bodice or jerkin, and brought together under the chin, forming an outstanding collar or ruff often six or eight inches wide, and in some cases dandies went to even greater extremes and extended their "pickadilly" a foot or more.

Queen Elizabeth made the ruff almost historical by her constant wearing of it at court functions, and to have her portrait painted.

Versatile Vegetable.

It is a blessing nowadays to discover an article of food that will serve several purposes. The cassava plant, referred to in the United States "Commerce Reports," certainly comes under the category. The tubers of this plant are put to many uses. First and foremost it is a vegetable, which is prepared for eating by boiling in plain water. It is also made into a coarse form of meal. Then the dry tuber is grated into another meal, which is made into bread. The juice is saved and boiled down, and on certain condiments being added casareen is produced, which is the foundation of many sauces. Starch can also be made from the tuber.

Independence Hall.

Independence hall, Philadelphia, the central in what is known as the state house group, was begun in 1732, and was opened and first put to use in September, 1736, when William Allen, mayor and prominent merchant of Philadelphia, gave a dinner to the citizens. It was occupied in October of the came year by the legislature, of which Benjamin Franklin was clerk. The Liberty bell was placed in the state house steeple in June, 1753. Congress convened in Independence hall March 4, 1777, left on September 18, 1777, returned July 2, 1778, and continued to sit there until the close of the revolution.

How the Foreman Beat Ep

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

The face of Riffkin, the little foreman, was set and resolute when he entered Ep's office in the Suit Emporium. Ep owned the emporium, with its stock of cheap, shoddy goods, over which half a score of girls sat toiling at their machines from eight till six, and sometimes later.

"Well, Riffkin?" asked Ep, without looking up from his ledger.

"Well, Mr. Ep, it's this way," began the foreman. "I come to you time and again about my girl, Maria Spalza. Me and she want to get married and we want to set up housekeeping. Last year, when her scalp was torn in your machine because you were too stingy to install a guard, you promised to settle for nine hundred dollars. And every time I speak you put me off with promises. Now, Mr. Ep, unless you pay, we go to law."

Ep smiled sourly and, rising to his feet, took the excited little man's arm.

"See them goods?" he asked pointing to a series of shelves. "Four thousands dollars' worth of Paris style gowns, and useless. Why? Because they've got wide sleeves and the fashions has changed. Look here!" He pointed in another direction. "Four thousands dollars' worth of Paris style gowns that will go like hot cakes. Why? Narrow sleeves—new style. Now, my friend, if I sell every one of them new gowns, I just clear my losses on the old ones. And where's your profit? Presently—"

"No more 'presently,'" Riffkin shouted. "I hear that word too much. Next year, mebbe, you settle—what?"

Ep shrugged his shoulders. "You can't get blood out of a stone, Riffkin," he said. "Unless a fortunate accident happened—well, in that case I'd do handsome by you both. The old stock's insured for full value and the new ain't insured for a cent. Sure enough, my luck would be that if a fire burst out the new gowns would go up in a flash and the old stock wouldn't be touched by as much as a drop of water. If I wasn't an honest man—"

He scowled angrily at the old stock, neatly wrapped upon the shelves.

"I wish you was honest enough to pay your debts," growled the foreman, turning away.

Maria Spalza, his sweetheart, worked on one of the machines. A year previously half her scalp had been torn away by an unprotected rod. It had been replaced by skillful skin-grafting and her beauty was not marred, but the pain and anguish were worth the paltry $900 that Ep had promised to pay. A jury would award $2,000.

"I'm going to quit and sue him, Maria," said Riffkin during the noon half hour.

"No, don't, Louis," pleaded the pretty Italian girl. "I know he means to do fair by us."

Everybody knew that Louis and Maria had been sweethearts for two years.

The day passed as usual. At six o'clock the girls ran chattering out of the building. Usually Mr. Ep was the last to leave, locking the office after him, and then the factory door, but on this occasion he hurried past Riffkin with averted face, leaving the little foreman a prey to wild astonishment.

He switched off the electric light and instantly a red spark shone out upon the floor. Riffkin stared at it in horror. It was the lighted end of a cigarette, and was burning merrily, the end of the unlit portion near a waste basket containing—oiled paper!

Riffkin saw the scheme in an instant. He had not understood that Ep was proposing that he should burn down the factory that morning.

Soon the whole place was afire. The flames had gained the end of the factory and were crawling up the walls. The glare was perceptible all down the street. Riffkin heard shouts underneath the windows.

Then he ran down the stairs to the street, where the firemen were already leaping from their engines.

"Seventh floor!" he gasped. "I tried to stop the spread, but it was beyond control. Hurry!"

They did not need to hurry. In five minutes more only a mass of black and coiling smoke showed where the conflagration had been.

The crowd slowly dispersed. But Riffkin waited. He knew that Ep would come to see his handiwork. Soon he perceived him skulking in the fringe of the crowd.

The two saw each other simultaneously. Ep came forward with assumed anxiety.

"This is terrible, Riffkin," he said. "How can it have happened?"

"Let's go and see," said Riffkin, and took Ep by the arm.

"Mr. Ep," said Riffkin, "I saw that cigarette. It ain't my business—but I want nine hundred."

Ep attempted to bluster; then, checking himself, sat down and quietly wrote out the check upon his blackened desk. Riffkin read it and pocketed it.

"I'm sorry it was the wrong stock, Mr. Ep," he said.

"What d'you mean?" shouted Ep.

Riffkin pointed through the smoke clouds. As these rolled away, Ep could see that the new gowns had been wholly consumed; but upon their shelves, neatly folded and protected from the water from the hose, the old insured gowns with the wide sleeves reposed in their pristine quality.

HOT SUMMER DOES WONDERFUL WORK IN OLD ENGLAND

By EARLE C. REEVES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 15.—England's most remarkable Summer of half a century is drawing to a close. Two or three such Summers and ice cream parlors would blossom on every corner; Englishmen would wear Palm Beach suits, instead of staring at them in wonder; refrigerators would appear in every home, and John Bull would take to drinking ice water like a civilized person, instead of making the obtaining of any drinking water at all a problem that would baffle a Sherlock Holmes.

For England has had a comfortably hot Summer. England has suffered, Americans in England have revelled in the sunlight, lived in comfort and chortled at the discomfort of their English friends.

For years immemorial the Englishman has pulled the leg of his American friend for freezing in England's Summer time. This year tables have turned. The Yanks have twitted John Bull for sweltering in what has really been—excepting for a few days—really comfortable warm weather.

The newspapers have given John some solace. Hardy travellers, who have ventured into America's heat belt, in the vicinity of Forty-second street and Broadway, wrote back almost daily to the press, giving melting accounts of a much hotter land.

Actually Removed Coats.

The heat has had its recompense for the Englishman. He is an outdoor animal, as far as his weather will permit. He has never before had so much perfectly usable outdoors. For months not a drop of rain fell. Never was so much tennis and cricket and golf played. Never was the Thames—from the point of view of amusement the most "used" river in the world — so constantly encumbered with pleasure craft.

The Americanizing of the island continued. Folks who hadn't the slightest idea how ice cream was made, who hardly knew whether it was made from milk or water, bought freezers. Then followed diplomatic advances to the "fishmonger." The fishmonger became a man of importance, to be smiled upon. Folks wanted ice. Whether they had freezers—"ice machines," they call 'em—or not, English people actually were wanting ice. You have to live in England to understand the marvel of it.

There supervened, of course, an ice famine. Something always supervenes in England at the time one wants something the most.

Furthermore, the English, who have no front porches or back ones, for that matter, began to talk of different kinds of houses—American style specially designed for the hot months.

Crops Suffer—Sports Thrive

Englishmen actually took off their coats! Sometimes even in their offices. Nothing short of a marvel, this.

The reverse side of the medal was the crops and the gardens. Crops suffered badly, of course. This meant lost money and concern to the farmers. But the state of the gardens meant something to everybody. For, when it isn't raining—between showers, as it were—England lives in its back garden, which is, properly speaking, its front garden, for the houses face backward, dining room and perhaps "smoke-run" in front, but drawing room facing the garden.

London, a city of greenery and blossoms, became seared and brown. There was, of course, a water famine. In many parts the water pipes yielded to the turn of the tap only during a certain part of the day, while everywhere it was against the rules of the water companies to use a hose.

Herculean efforts were made to keep the gardens green, but it was useless. England is drifting into Indian Summer, already taking on the colors of Fall.

Despite the "grousing" at the heat, England, on the whole, has liked the sample of American Summer weather very much. It has helped John Bull's play, and play is an equal partner with work hereabouts or perhaps a majority stockholder.

FEDERATION OF P. T. A. OPENS INITIAL MEETING

With a salute of the flag led by Mrs. Winona Crawford, the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations opened its initial meeting of the year in the cafe of the Intermediate school yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. John Robert White presiding.

The session was largely devoted to reports of officers and committee chairmen. Funds in the bank account amounting to $221.83 were reported by the treasurer, besides the $118 scholarship fund.

Committee chairmen all asked for the names of chairmen heads of corresponding committees in the individual associations that they might get their committees together and formulate a working plan for the year. Presidents present were requested to send the names of such appointees to the corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. V. Brown, who would then be prepared to furnish them on request.

Committee Reports

Mrs. Crawford, chairman of patriotism, said she was planning programs for Columbus Day, October 12, which would be the next meeting day of the federation, and for Armistice Day in November.

Mrs. Horner, chairman of philanthropy, reported that the city welfare council, with which the federation is affiliated, had decided to change its policy in regard to furnishing Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners to the needy. This year instead of soliciting contributions of food it would ask for 5 cents from each child in attendance on the public schools and with the money buy the supplies needed, thus avoiding confusion, duplication and shortage.

She also stated that the welfare council which is supported by contributions from the various organized bodies of the city and appropriations by the city council, is asking the organizations to increase their appropriations and had requested the federation to raise its gift from $5 to $15 this year. After some debate a vote was taken to continue the annual appropriation of $5, but to supplement it with a gift of $10 which would not commit the federation to any change of policy another year.

The debate brought out the fact that frequently the chairman of philanthropy receives emergency calls upon which she needs to act immediately without waiting for red tape processes. On motion of Mrs. H. V. Brown, members voted to turn over to her $15 to be drawn upon in such cases.

Mrs. Campbell as chairman of hospitality when asked for the plans she had made for the annual teachers' reception, stated she was ready to act whenever the date should be set. October 10 was selected as the evening for that function and presidents were asked to furnish Mrs. Campbell with the name of their chairmen of courtesy and hospitality who would act as assisting hostesses.

Mrs. White announced that the date of the first district conference of presidents which the federation had voted to entertain, had been changed to October 6, and because of conflicting meetings it had been impossible to secure a place where the meeting could be held and a luncheon provided. The federation therefore voted to postpone the invitation to a later period.

Mrs. White also announced the receipt of pamphlets outlining programs for the coming year, and literature of interest which she would have and gladly supply to members on call.

She likewise announced the San Fernando Valley fair at San Fernando and said she had been asked to name a committee to assist doctors and nurses on Tuesday, known as Welfare Day, when a better babies contest would be staged. She appointed Mrs. White, chairman of hygiene, with instructions to select two other ladies to assist her.

Mrs. Rosenberg, president of Pacific Avenue association, reported it would have its "Fathers' Night" in October.

Mrs. Kulp, president of Intermediate, reported a committee of mothers appointed from her association who gathered Monday morning at the school to greet the new mothers and invite them to join the organization.

Guest Invitations

As a courtesy and means of stimulating interest, the federation voted to invite as special guests at each meeting, the official board of some Parent-Teacher Association, a different one each time, until all had been entertained. The suggestion by the president that federation chairmen visit the individual P.-T. A. meetings, was received favorably. Mrs. McKee, president of the Colorado association, asked that the first invitation to an executive board be extended to her association, and the organization cheerfully agreed.

Following the session, the ladies enjoyed refreshments of ice cream and cake of which the cafeteria had a surplus, which it was selling to the children after school, and for which the members paid into the cafeteria treasury. It was an unusual treat and may tempt the ladies to meet often in that place.

WALLACE REID AT PALACE GRAND

Wallace Reid has driven almost every kind of vehicle in his Paramount screen offerings. In his recent picture, "The Love Special," he added a locomotive to the list and in the automobile race picture immediately following, he drove a fast racing car around the track at a speed of a hundred and ten miles per hour.

In "The Hell Diggers," his late picture written by Byron Morgan, which will be shown at the Palace Grand Theatre today the star operates one of the most unusual machines in the world—the giant dredger which is used to pan the precious metal from the earth in Northern California. On this occasion, however, he was unable to make more than half a mile a day.

This lack of pep in the speed of the big machine, however, is more than compensated for by a thrilling fight when the dredger is converted into a floating fortress and which it is up to the faction headed by Mr. Reid to storm and capture, and by many other unusual scenes and situations.

Those who have been following the interesting and stirring scenes of the "Miracles of the Jungle" will be thrilled more than ever in the fourth episode, "The Leopard's Vengeance," in which is depicted some remarkable animal intelligence.

A Tony Sarg's comedy on any bill always pleases and his latest, "Why They Love Cave Men" is a stone age scream.

Mrs. Leonora Miller, 114 West Broadway, left today for Balboa, where she will spend the remainder of the week with friends. A launch trip to Catalina is planned.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PLANS BOOTH AT FAIR

A committee from the Glendale Chamber of Commerce consisting of Secretary Rhoades, Assistant Secretary Sanders, Jesse Smith and V. M. Hollister, went to San Fernando yesterday, their intention being to make arrangements for the booth that is to be maintained by the local Chamber of Commerce at the big fair to be held just north of San Fernando soon.

It has been decided that the different Chambers of Commerce of the valley will each have a 20-foot booth at this fair. The booth to be maintained by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce will be designed and constructed by the Bently-Schoeneman Lumber company. This booth will be built in Glendale and will be taken to the fair grounds on a large motor truck.

The committee reports that everything in the way of preparation for the fair is progressing at a remarkable rate. Several mammoth tents have been erected, each of these being several times as large as the big tent in which the Glendale Merchants' exposition was held. In addition to this there will be a number of smaller tents. There will be a dancing pavillion capable of accommodating 300 couples. In addition to this there will be a large arena and many other features.

FORD AGENCY HOLDS ITS HOUSE WARMING TONIGHT

The house-warming of the new Ford agency, 115-125 West Colorado street, will be held tonight. Jesse Smith, proprietor of this establishment, says he does not like the expression "formal opening," for that does not express the idea he wishes to convey. The affair will be like an old-time housewarming. It will be informal in the extreme. While the people of Glendale will be the guests of the evening and the Ford agency will be host, every part of the establishment will belong to the folks who attend, for that one night. Everything is being done that would result in the visitors having a real good time and to all of the features that will be presented will be added the "glad hand" of Jesse and all of his assistants.

Among the entertainment features of the evening will be a two-hour band concert, by the Elks'-Legion band, with Director Crawford in charge. This will be held from 8 until 10. From 10 o'clock until midnight dancing will be enjoyed, Mr. Crawford and his orchestra furnishing the music for the affair. There will be other features that will prove interesting to the guests, while personally conducted tours of inspection will be held throughout the evening.

It was just a month ago today that the Ford agency moved into its new quarters, and it has taken the intervening time to put the place in condition for public inspection. Everything is now in excellent working order. One of the innovations of this new building is the gasoline filling service station at the corner of Colorado and Orange streets. The service The service door and station opens on door and stations opens on one of the main traffic arteries of Glendale. Mr. Smith says that "Welcome is on the mat" to all of the Ford owners, who are exhorted to drive in and secure oil or gasoline at any time.

Every resident of Glendale is invited to the house-warming this evenig, regardless of whether he owns a Ford or a Packard. The owners of all makes of cars will shake hands and get better acquainted.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S DESCENDANT TO SPEAK HERE

Prince Raphael Emmanuel of Chaldea will speak at the Congregational Church next Sunday eevning on "Chaldea, It's History and Customs." Prince Emmanuel is a direct descendant of King Nebuchadnezzar and of Nimrod. He delivered an address this summer before the Tuesday Afternoon Club and all who heard it pronounced it both entertaining and instructive. He will appear in his native costume next Sunday evening. He is a ready speaker and an interesting personality.

LOCAL DOUGHNUT IS UNRIVALED AT LOW PRICE

Dainty Fresh Confections of Quality Shop, Glendale Made, Are Reduced

Each Quality doughnut has a hole in it, but that is not all—it has the actual quality and deliciousness that is bringing it rapidly to the front. The sale of the Quality doughnut is growing faster thna Glendale—and that is saying a good deal. Frank Wyman, proprietor of the Quality Doughnut Shop, 104 West California avenue, said this morning:

"It certainly is a surprise to us the way the people of Glendale are taking to our doughnuts. We can see only one reason for this, and that is that the people of this city know a good thing when they see it—and that's no joke. We are using the very finest of materials in everything we turn out. There is absolutely nothing in the way of substitutes used in our doughnuts. Everything is the purest it is possible to buy. This is what makes our doughnuts just a little bit better "than mother makes"—or used to make. And the big thing about our business is that everything that goes into the manufacture of our doughnuts is purchased in Glendale. This firm is 100 per cent Glendale and we are proud of the fact. If every merchant in Glendale would buy, as far as possible, in Glendale this city would make an even better growth than it is at this time.

"Business for us has been picking up from the very first day, and it is now jumping with leaps and bounds. We maintain a daily free delivery to any part of Glendale, and have a motor-driven delivery wagon which is strictly sanitary, as is our entire factory. An invitation is extended to the people of Glendale to visit our plant and see just how these doughnuts are made."

The big feature in connection with the Quality Doughnut Shop is the reduction in the price of doughnuts, which was announced this morning. The price per dozen has been lowered from 35 to 25 cents. This reduction is brought about by the reduced price of materials. This voluntary reduction on the part of Mr. Wyman shows that he is trying to do the fair thing by the people of this city.

Mr. Wyman has been a resident of Glendale for one year and has been maintaining his factory at the new stand for about six weeks. He is a member of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and is a sure-enough live wire. Allen Ewing, a well-known young man of this city, is employed as wholesale delivery man for this establishment. A list of the merchants in Glendale who handle the Quality doughnuts will be made soon by Mr. Wyman.

MUTUAL BENEFIT CIRCLE RESUMES

The Mutual Benefit Reading Circle resumed its sessions yesterday at the city library on Harvard street with Mrs. A. A. Barton, chairman, presiding.

It opened with greetings of welcome by Mrs. Alma Danford, the librarian, who conveyed a message from Mrs. Charles H. Toll, founder of the Circle who had hoped to be present but was unable to carry out her wish.

A message was also read from Mrs. R. T. Burr, one of the officers of the club who has been very ill, but is much better.

One of the most interesting announcements was the advent of two new Circle babies. One is a son born to Mrs. Earl Peck, of Calexico, a former resident of Glendale, who has always kept up her membership in the Circle; the other a daughter born to Mrs. Jose Felix, of East Lomita avenue, this city.

All who had quotations responded with them when their names were mentioned in roll call.

Reports were made by the treasurer and the different chairmen of committees and at the mid-day luncheon members were grouped according to the Parent-Teacher Associations to which they belong.

Mrs. Eustace B. Moore was the reader of the afternoon and finished the book, "When Children Err" by Elizabeth Harrison. It stimulated considerable discussion relative to the punishment of children, all agreeing that correction should never take place in the presence of others as a humiliation to the child, nor should it be done in anger. The chief point made by the author was that the child should learn by experience which will cultivate his moral perception rather than by arbitrary ruling of the parent.

STORY HOUR PARTY AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Last Saturday at the Public Library on Harvard street, about ninety boys and girls enjoyed a celebration at the end of a contest for attendance at the story hour which is a regular feature of Saturday afternoons.

The girls won and the boys gallantly assisted Miss Leone Shattuck in the entertainment program at which the fair winners were guests of honor. It included, as a special treat, a harp number by little Miss Mary McCrackan, 123 West Broadway, and the story "How Bunnies Got Long Ears" told by Miss Shattuck.

All the children were then granted permission to go out on the grass and play games. At the close of the party each child was given, as a party favor, a candy banana.

The attendance at the story hour, which has proven very popular library feature, has totalled 700 this summer. It will be continued throughout the year at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoons.

LOCAL SALES

Pollock & Aameth, one of the leading real estate firms, reports the sale of the A. Schiavaras home at 635 East Elk, to Davis Sullivan. The deal was completed yesterday afternoon and Mr. Sullivan and his family will move into their new home as soon as possible.

Mr. Sullivan is well known in Glendale where he has been employed for some time as a mail carrier, and many of his friends are congratulating him on the purchase of the Schiavaras property.
